Secretary's Message

Joe Norwood

The Kansas Department of Corrections (KDOC) faced a number of ongoing challenges in FY 2017, and used these as opportunities to make improvements in areas such as population management, staff recruiting and retention, juvenile justice reform and community supervision.

As always, the vision of creating a safer Kansas through effective correctional services guided the KDOC's policies and decisions. I am proud of the significant strides made in the past year to ensure public safety, to reduce recidivism and to attract qualified, motivated employees.

Pay raises for uniformed officers, announced by Governor Brownback in August 2017, were an acknowledgement of the excellent, and often underappreciated, work by KDOC staff, as well as an incentive to attract new employees. The agency will advocate for further salary enhancements for all staff as part of ongoing recruitment and retention efforts.

After seeing a dip in offender population growth in FY 2016, the population of KDOC adult facilities grew slightly in FY 2017. While efforts continue in stemming the growth, steps to manage an increase in the incarcerated population were necessary. Balancing the maximum -custody offender population was a year-long effort. Without construction, bed capacity increased by more than 800 beds by double-bunking offenders in facilities where cell-size permitted.

In a proposal which would positively affect staffing challenges and population management, the agency recommended to the Kansas Legislature plans to build a new correctional facility in Lansing. The construction would update the more than 150-year-old facility, increase bed space and require fewer staff. Funded through a lease-purchase agreement, the project would be budget neutral for the State, and modern efficiencies would result in cost savings over the long term. The air-conditioned, state-of-the-art design would greatly improve working conditions for staff. At the close of 2017, the proposal awaited legislative approval.

The KDOC continues its drive to increase programming and treatment opportunities for inmates suffering from mental illness. Approximately 39 percent of the Kansas inmate population – about 3,800 inmates – is affected by mental illness. In order to better serve the needs of this population, the KDOC began centralizing mental health treatment programs at El Dorado Correctional Facility (EDCF). The consolidated program at EDCF provided an additional 62 beds for the behavioral health program that serves offenders with severe and persistent mental illness. Consolidating mental health services at one location provides for a more efficient delivery of the essential behavioral health services to this population. EDCF is also home to the intake unit for male offenders entering the KDOC. Placing the behavioral health unit at the same facility as the male intake unit reduces the need to transport these offenders between facilities to receive services. Further development of services at EDCF for the mentally ill, including an Individualized Reintegration Unit, is planned for FY 2018.

A review of KDOC's inmate discipline practices and policies produced a dramatic reduction in the use of restrictive housing. Organizations such as the Association of State Correctional Administrators (ASCA) and the American Correctional Association (ACA) have defined restrictive housing as a practice to use only when absolutely necessary and for only as long as absolutely required.

With emphasis on alternative discipline and security measures, the KDOC has reduced its use of restrictive housing by 37 percent since July 1, 2016. By lessening its reliance upon restrictive housing, the KDOC has relieved the burdens on both the staff and inmates in these settings. The agency's number one priority remains to operate safe and secure facilities for staff and inmates, while improving public safety by providing all inmates opportunities for social contact, education and self-improvement programs, along with other activities, to enhance their rehabilitation.

Recidivism reduction is among the primary goals of the KDOC. Everyone involved in the care and custody of an offender must understand the impact they have and how naturally occurring contacts with offenders can impact behavior. Staff and contractors/volunteers are provided training on specific offender interaction skills in order to enhance their ability to address inmate behavior issues.

Programs to help offenders succeed upon release are diverse and specific to each offender's individual needs. The KDOC served more than 7,000 offenders in substance abuse, GED/vocational training, sex offender, job readiness, parenting and cognitive programs and groups. It also served more than 5,000 offenders with release planning and more than 600 with specialized discharge planning.

The Mentoring4Success (M4S) program continues to play a key role in the agency's effort to reduce recidivism. Nearly 8,000 adult mentor matches have been made with offenders transitioning to the community since 2011. Through M4S, the KDOC trains and matches community volunteers with offenders six months prior to release, and these volunteers continue to work with the offender for six months post release. Mentors assist offenders in securing a place to live, gaining employment, and acquiring practical coping strategies. Offenders who participate in the mentoring program recidivate at a much lower rate (8.7 percent compared to 20.7 percent in the first year after release) than those who exit supervision without a mentor. Mentoring within juvenile correctional facilities continued to expand in FY 2017, with 340 mentor matches having been made since the program's inception in 2014.

Community and Field Services (probation, parole, and post-release supervision) focuses on helping offenders become productive members of their communities. By assisting offenders in meeting their basic employment and housing needs, the risk associated with criminal activity can then be addressed. To help offenders succeed upon release, the agency's Community and Field Services division added a Transition Team during 2017. This unit assists offenders in the transition from a KDOC correctional facility or from another state to supervision in Kansas. It is essential to review the cases of offenders coming onto supervision quickly, as the early stage after release is essential to their success. Centralizing the process will allow for more timely identification of risk and need of each offender.

As a result of Kansas' innovative approach to treating offenders with drug addictions, the KDOC was one of eight states selected for participation in the National Governor's Association Learning Lab on Opioid Use by Justice Involved Population. The KDOC was awarded a grant to participate in an eight-month project devoted to developing strategies for the entire nation to apply to the recent opioid-use crisis.

The landmark Juvenile Justice Reform implementation continued in FY 2017 following the most comprehensive review of the Kansas Juvenile Justice system in 20 years. Policy recommendations that resulted in the 2016 Senate Bill 367 are changing the juvenile justice landscape. When fully implemented in 2019, SB 367 will prevent deeper juvenile justice system involvement of lower-level youth through early response with targeted services and swift and appropriate sanctions; protect public safety and contain costs by focusing system resources on the highest-risk youth; and sustain effective practices through continued oversight and reinvestment in a stronger continuum of evidence-based services.

In fiscal year 2017, Juvenile Services, in collaboration with the court system and other stakeholders, deployed the first standards for community use to develop and implement immediate intervention programs for first-time and low-level youth accused of a crime. In addition, a statewide Detention Assessment Instrument was developed and implemented, as were regulations for the system of graduated responses and incentives to be applied by community supervision officers in responding to youth behavior. Functional Family Therapy (FFT®) and Moral Reconciliation Therapy (MRT®) for moderate- and high-risk-to-reoffend youth, and sex-offender-specific risk assessment and community-based treatment were implemented on a statewide basis. The KDOC and stakeholders representing schools, law enforcement, courts and others, are continuing the work of reforming the state's juvenile justice system.

These efforts resulted in a continued decline in the number of juvenile justice involved youth in Kansas. The state saw a 12.9 percent reduction in youth presented to juvenile intake by law enforcement for an alleged offense, a 9.3 percent reduction in youth on intensive supervision probation, a 38.3 percent reduction in youth in state custody for out-of-home placement and a 7.8 percent decline in juvenile correctional facility incarcerations.

By reducing the use of out-of-home placements, focusing resources on the highest-risk juveniles and investing in evidence-based alternatives that allow youth to be supervised safely while remaining at home, Kansas is reaping the reinvestment opportunities envisioned as part of system reform. More than $12 million was generated in FY 2017 for reinvestment in evidence-based programs for juveniles.

The declining use of out-of-home placements for juveniles allowed the KDOC to close the Larned Juvenile Correctional Facility, resulting in the continued operation of only one such facility in Kansas, the Kansas Juvenile Correctional Complex located in Topeka.

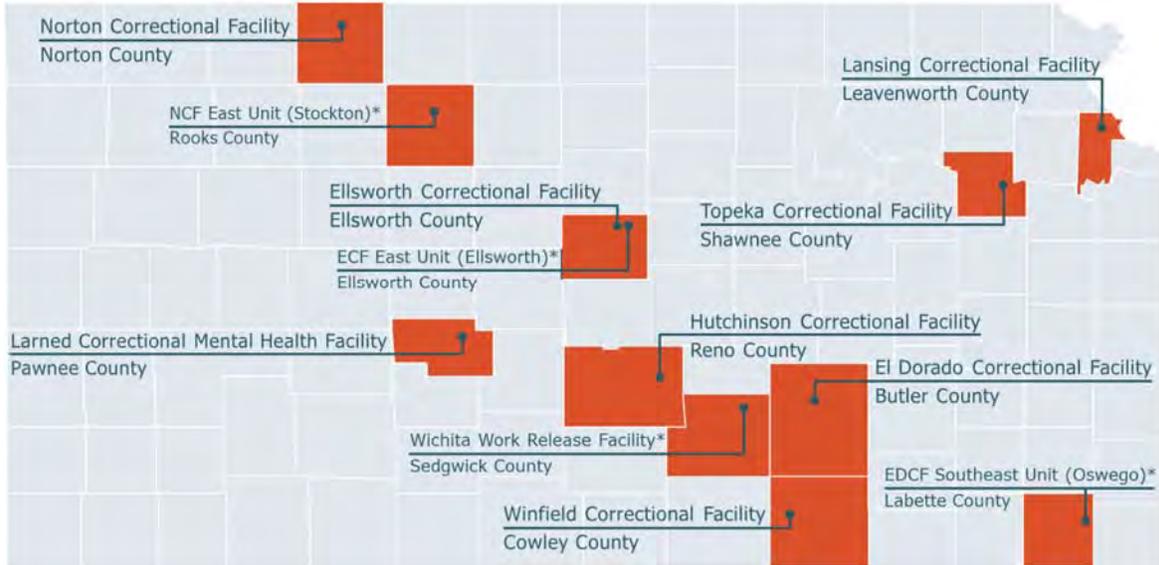

The KDOC emerged from FY 2017 stronger and more efficient through a focus on staff recruitment, retention and development, juvenile justice reform and improved services for those incarcerated and under supervision. Many challenges lie ahead, but I am proud of the honorable and professional manner with which KDOC staff members perform their duties. Together we are committed to the KDOC's mission and to making Kansans safer.

Adult Population: Demographics at a Glance

Adult Population: Mental Illness and Behavioral Health

39% of KDOC adult inmates have a mental illness.

Adult Population Mentally Ill Inmates | Based on an Average Daily Population of 9,760

FY 2017

NOTE: Each % total is given as 100.
The sum may vary slightly due to rounding.

Defined Diagnoses:

- Serious Mental Illness
Diagnoses resulting in serious impairment in functioning, interfering with a person's ability to meet the ordinary demands of living and require an individualized treatment plan.
- Severe and Persistent Mental Illness Eligible Diagnoses resulting in extreme and lasting impairment in functioning, requiring an individualized treatment plan and ongoing multi-disciplinary care. Diagnoses are comparable to those used and set by community standard of care.
- Short-lived Mental Health Issues
Diagnoses (DSM-5) that generally resolve within six months or less, as well as diagnoses that interfere with a person's functioning in social, occupational or other important activities (generally excluding a sole diagnosis of substance use disorder or personality disorder).

Responding to Mental and Behavioral Health Needs

In FY 2017 the KDOC:

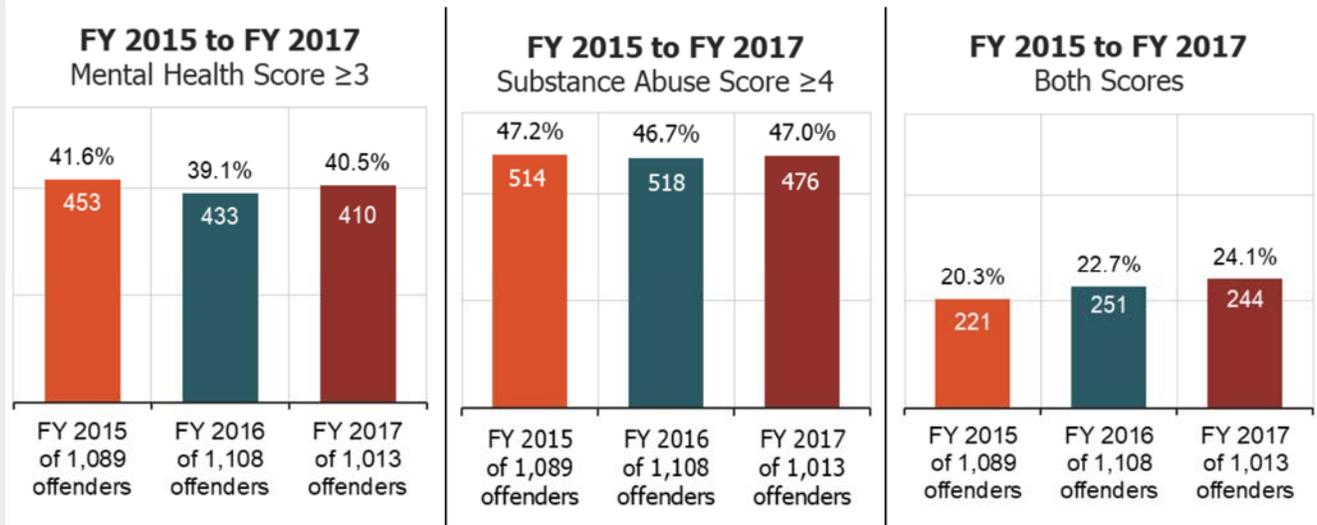

- Trained over 100 correctional officers, unit team, administrators, behavioral health and medical staff through the American Correctional Association's Correctional Behavioral Health Certification Program.
- Developed/implemented plan to add 4 high-acuity behavioral health beds to Lansing Correctional Facility, which currently houses a 280-bed specialized treatment and reintegration unit (TRU).
- Opened 62 high-acuity behavioral beds at El Dorado Correctional Facility.
  - In FY 2018, another 124 high-acuity behavioral health beds will be added to the Individualized Reintegration Unit (IRU). The unit provides in-patient and residential levels of correctional behavioral health service. This unit also will work initially with a newly developed Restrictive Housing Diversion program for offenders with serious mental illness.
- Included in the plan are changes to the physical plant (including group therapy, activity therapy, and behavioral health office space), medical clinic and medical treatment services, medical/behavioral health staffing levels, implementation of a treatment level system and implementation of Incentive Levels for a Specialized Housing Unit.

Reentry and Programs: Adult Summary

Adult Population

Effective Programs and Correctional Practices

Core principles and practices that shape programs, services and interventions, which are evidence-based as reducing recidivism:

- Assess for risk
- Target interventions to areas of criminogenic (crime-producing) need
- Use cognitive skills-building teaching/learning, with skills practice
- Use core correctional practices in interactions with offenders
- Use motivational interviewing, effective use of authority, approval and disapproval, disrupt cognitive distortions
- Address responsivity
- Identify learning styles, or factors that interfere with learning such as language, intellect or life situations
- Allow for timely and quality release and discharge planning
- Observe the work with coaching and feedback for fidelity
- Provide for data collection and evaluation

These practices allow for programming that reduces recidivism, and for which offenders can receive program credit, both of which safely support population management.

Adult Population

Effective Release Planning: The First 30 Days Out

Over 95% of offenders have a release plan, with specialized services for mental health needs from discharge planners. Key ingredients of effective release plans:

- Provides a residence plan that is stable and safe, focusing on the physical and social environments
- Addresses basic needs (food, water, clothing, shelter)
- Identifies pro-social influences (natural supports, mentor) to assist in reintegration, focusing on the first days out
- Provides structure for the first 24 hours, week and month for a step down from the structure of incarceration
- Addresses the offender's leisure time and companions in a way that reduces risk of relapse
- Includes connections to behavioral health providers for a continuum of care for mental health and substance abuse needs, including a specific plan for medication when/as needed
- Ensures early/sufficient contact with parole officer for monitoring for areas of risk/need
- Builds on work in the facility, with a focus on success
- Addresses employment, with a realistic employment plan to achieve sustained employment (including addressing identification and transportation)
- Helps offender address the significant increase in responsibility, obligations and needs in the shift to the community

Office of Victim Services Summary

Office of Victim Services (OVS) Accomplishments | FY 2017

- Partnered with the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) and corrections-based victim services staff in Minnesota and Washington to create a comprehensive training video, titled “Domestic Violence and Offender Release – The Intersection of Safety and Accountability.” Kansas focused on sharing information about the KDOC domestic violence screening/training initiatives and providing an overview of facility-based batterer intervention services.
  - Paid for by the National Institute of Corrections
  - Provided information to several states that want to mirror Kansas’ domestic violence response protocol, training initiatives or batterer intervention programming
- Selected “Domestic Violence and Community Supervision” training as the primary parole training initiative for FY17. The three-day training addresses dynamics of domestic violence and specific supervision strategies to effectively manage domestic violence offenders while intentionally weighing victim safety concerns. Co-facilitated by parole staff, victim services liaisons and batterer intervention program (BIP) staff, 187 parole officers and other supportive staff attended the training. Following this training initiative, OVS has seen an increase in parole officers referring offenders for BIP and victims for supportive services.
- Provided training on working with crime victims and available OVS services to more than 250 new KDOC facility and parole staff.
- Provided training to more than 150 community partners, including outreach to Victim Witness Coordinators in all of Kansas’ 31 judicial districts.

NOTE: Numbers may vary for several reasons. Old law inmates on parole may be returned to prison as condition violators or for the commission of new offenses. Also, a number of old law offenders previously paroled to a determinate sentence upon release may have to serve the remaining balance of the old law sentence pursuant to HB 2707.

Capital Punishment

Kansas has had a death penalty law three times, but has not conducted an execution since 1965. The U.S. Supreme Court struck down the death penalty laws in 40 states, including Kansas, in 1972. More than two decades later, the Kansas Legislature enacted a death penalty law, which Governor Joan Finney allowed to become law without her signature. The statute took effect on July 1, 1994.

Kansas statute established the death penalty by lethal injection as a sentencing option for offenders 18 years of age and older who are convicted of capital murder (K.S.A. 22-4001).

A number of inmates have been convicted of capital murder but sentenced to life in prison (without the possibility of parole) instead of death. Kansas does not have a separate "death row."

Inmates sentenced to death are housed at El Dorado Correctional Facility, along with other inmates who are in administrative segregation. However, inmate Scott Cheever, sentenced to death for the murder of Greenwood County Sheriff Matt Samuels, is held in the Administrative Segregation Unit at Lansing Correctional Facility due to the number of friends and family of Sheriff Samuels who are employed at El Dorado.

In the event that a female inmate is sentenced to death, she will be held at the Topeka Correctional Facility, the only facility for female inmates in Kansas.

Inmates managed at El Dorado or Topeka will be transferred to Lansing within a week of the scheduled date of the execution.

The average cost of incarceration at El Dorado per inmate in FY 2017 was $24,855.
